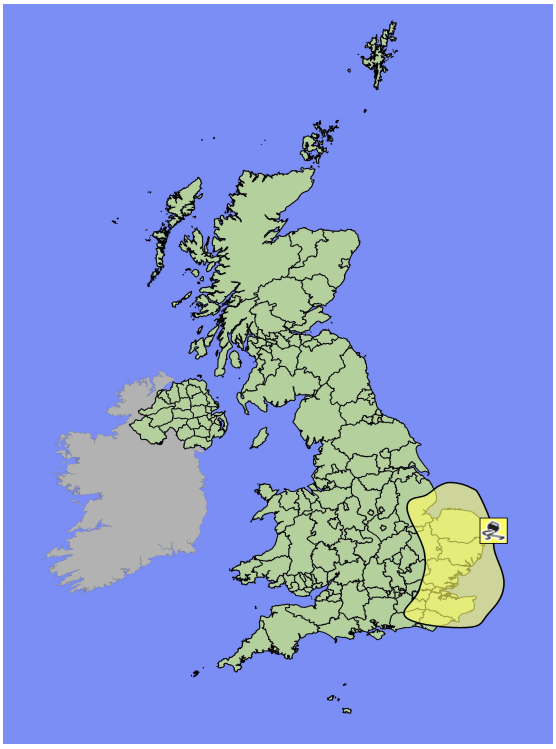
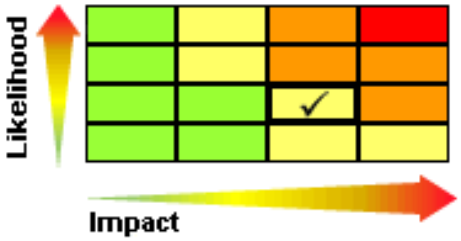
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A further burst of cold air, this time from the north, will bring sleet, snow and hail showers, some of them heavy, but with patchy ice expected to be a greater concern in these areas.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 20:00 on Tue, 12th Mar 2013 until 10:00 on Wed, 13th Mar 2013

Wintry showers will affect some southeastern and eastern areas of England overnight, and in combination with a widespread frost and partly melted snow in some areas, icy stretches are likely to become a hazard, primarily for untreated surfaces. Snowfall will be mostly restricted to a dusting here and there, but a few places could see a couple of centimetres.

The public should be aware of the potential for disruption, especially to travel.
